

INCLEMENT WEATHER POLICY
for the Maryland General Bar Examination and
the Out-of-State Attorneys Examination

The State Board of Law Examiners will administer the General Bar Examination as scheduled on February 28, 2012 and February 29, 2012, and the Out-of-State Attorneys Examination as scheduled on February 28, 2012. In the event of inclement weather, candidates should presume the examination will be administered and report to their assigned examination sites.

Candidates should strongly consider arranging overnight accommodations within walking distance of their examination sites to avoid transportation difficulties in the event of inclement weather. The examination will be administered on time. Further, time will not be extended to accommodate candidates who arrive late due to weather-related travel issues.

The Maryland General Bar Examination and the Out-of-State Attorneys Examination will not be postponed unless weather conditions are so extreme that the operation of the examination facilities is disrupted by the weather.

In the event the Board determines that the examinations must be postponed, announcement of the decision will be made on the following radio stations: WBAL (1090 AM) in Baltimore and WTOP (1500 AM/107.7 FM) in Washington, D.C. The decision also will be posted on the Board's link on the Judiciary's webpage: www.mdcourts.gov.

The State Board of Law Examiners will make a decision independent of state and local governments, the courts, counties, and other agencies which may make weather announcements. You should assume that the Maryland General Bar Examination and the Out-of-State Attorneys Examination will be administered as scheduled unless there is an announcement which specifically states that the examinations have been postponed.

In the rare and unlikely event that the examinations are postponed, candidates will be notified by mail of the new date for the examinations.
